Re: Invitation of Dr. HU Dini as Visiting Scholar at University of Macau

Dear Dr. Hu,

To facilitate our exchange of scientific ideas and strengthen collaborations, it is with my greatest pleasure to invite you to visit my research laboratory at the University of Macau as a Visiting Scholar during Jul. 20th – Aug. 15th, 2022. During your stay here at the University of Macau, you will be invited to deliver one research seminar in the topic of your choice, and you will also be encouraged to have numerous 1:1 meetings with my PhD students and postdoctoral fellows to learn each other's research interests and expertise. Of course, my lab will be fully open to you to freely explore potential areas of collaborations, particularly in combining your skills/expertise with our supramolecular biomaterials and drug delivery systems. I anticipate that this visit will certainly help establish research collaborations, and strengthen the academic connections between University of Macau and Beijing Forestry University.

Please kindly note that you (or your institution) would have to cover the cost incurred from this visit, including but not limited to accommodation and transportation.

I look forward to your acceptance of my invitation and meeting you in Macau soon!
